

JIKIDEN REIKI ASSOCIATION CODE OF ETHICS

1. Members practice and teach Jikiden Reiki in compliance with the objectives of the Jikiden Reiki Institute (Jikiden Reiki Kenkyukai) and honor the contract with the Institute each member voluntarily signs at the beginning of each Jikiden Reiki seminar.
2. Members refrain from discrimination against others in their practice and teaching of Jikiden Reiki on the basis of race, ethnicity, gender, illness, age, social status, sexual orientation or religion.
3. Members maintain strict confidentiality concerning all information about any student or client. Members also maintain confidential all client and student records and store such records, if any, in a secure location. No client or student information may be released by a member without the consent of the client or student involved with the exception of confidential communication with Jikiden Reiki Institute (Jikiden Reiki Kenkyukai).
4. Members ensure that their professional conduct is above reproach and refrain from taking physical, sexual, psychological, emotional or financial advantage of any client or student.
5. Members commit to improving their knowledge of and skill in Jikiden Reiki practice and Jikiden Reiki teaching and follow the Reiki Gokai or Precepts in their daily life.
6. With the common goal of promoting, encouraging and expanding the practice and teaching of Jikiden Reiki, members respect, communicate and cooperate with one another. Recognizing the value and common source of all Reiki, members refrain from disparaging non-Jikiden Reiki practitioners or non-Jikiden Reiki teachers. Members also cooperate with medical, dental, wellness, health care and therapy professionals and practitioners as appropriate.
7. Members acknowledge and understand that failure to abide by the terms of the Code of Ethics of the JIKIDEN REIKI ASSOCIATION may lead to termination of membership or other action by its Board of Directors.
